

Stories for Life!

Every day we tell each other stories about failure and success, threatened and rescued life. What if not only life creates our stories but stories create our life? Then retelling our stories might recreate the life we live!

If we understand life as a flow of stories that we tell ourselves and each other then psychotherapy is perhaps the deconstruction and transformation of stories that inhibit us and the development and stabilisation of stories widening our range of choice.

At the festival therapeutic storytellers from nine countries come together to show how stories can transform our life in a healing manner. A wealth of possibilities unfolds: Therapeutic stories are told in the form of songs and comics, puppet shows, digital media, anecdotes, hypnotic trance sessions and sculptures... Just as wide is the range of therapeutic applications: Storytelling can be used in trauma therapy, in the support of bereaved persons, in reconciliation work, in somatic healing, in school work and in many other fields.

We believe that therapy and individual development work best when they are linked with joy, humour and liveliness. Therefore, we celebrate the discovery of healing stories in a festival. There, we focus on the immediate and personal experience of all the attitudes and techniques which have proven effective in therapeutic storytelling, and as we do so, we enjoy learning and living.

We look forward to seeing you!
